Kingston To Take Part In State Celebration

Observance of 150th Anniversary of Adoption of State Constitution Here Recommended by Board of Regents As Part of State Wide Historical Celebration Covering Two Years.

An extensive program for state-wide participation in the principal civil and military anniversaries of the important years 1776 and 1777 as New York state's celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Revolutionary War has been recommended by a special committee appointed by the board of regents. The program has been approved by the board of regents and its adoption by the state is to be urged by that body.

In general the program calls for the observance in 1925 of New York's acceptance of the Declaration of Independence and the engagements of Long Island and White Plains; and in 1927 the observance of the anniversary of the first state constitution at Kingston, the battles of Oriskany, Bennington and Saratoga. It also makes provision in these and other years for local celebrations by societies, churches, schools and civic bodies of any pertinent incidents from 1775 to 1783; and lays stress upon the proposal that the significance of the Revolution be explained to pupils in schools without the modification of the regular programs.

To further this program, the board of regents recommends three publications: A New York Handbook of the Revolution to awaken interest and to outline the program; a Report of the Sesquicentennial Celebration; and a Memorial History of New York prepared by outstanding historians of the state.

In accordance with the recommendation of the New York State Historical Association which was authorized by the legislature to report on the celebration, and at the suggestion of the governor, the board of regents will have general supervision of the program. It is planned to have a special sesquicentennial executive committee of seven members and an executive secretary to carry out the program with the cooperation of the historical and patriotic societies of the state and an honorary committee of 250 eminent persons representing all sections of the state.

For the proper administration of the celebration, a total appropriation of $211,500 is to be asked, distributed over the three years, 1925, 1926 and 1927. The board of regents confidently expects that the legislature and the governor will approve this practical program for the anniversary celebration.

In presenting this budget the committee pointed out that the following amounts have been made available for previous celebrations: 1839—Washington Inauguration, $200,000. 1907—Jamestown Exposition, $150,000. 1909—Lake Champlain Tercentenary, $125,000. 1909—Hudson-Fulton Celebration, $500,000. 1913-14—War of 1812, $250,000.

The committee consists of the following representatives of the State department of Education: Dr. Frank T. Graves, president of the university, Regent Charles B. Alexander, Dr. James Sullivan, assistant commissioner of education, Dr. A. C. Flick, state historian, and Peter Nelson, head of the section of public records, and representative of the New York State Historical Association.

In presenting its report this committee stated: "The American Revolution is generally recognized by historians as one of the most important factors in world history. It created a new Federal republic on a democratic basis out of a portion of the British Empire. It helped to liberalize and to democratize the remainder of the British Empire. It accelerated that movement in France which overthrew old regimes of the Bourbons. It is the example for our sister republics in Latin America and the thirty more republics girdling the globe. In the American Revolution, New York occupied the most strategic position both politically and militarily, and that fact was recognized by British and the patriots alike. The success of the Revolution was as much to the statesmanship of men like George Clinton, John Jay, James Duane and Alexander Hamilton as to the victories at Oriskany, Bennington and Saratoga. New York, handicapped by the fact that Tory population was relatively larger than any of the colonies and further fact that New York city in the hands of the British from 1789 to the end of the war, played a role in the Revolution—once again, and not less generously rewarded by historians living in other parts of the world."

The year 1925 marks the beginning of the 150th anniversary of the American Revolution and its important consequences. It affords an excellent opportunity to rekindle the birth of these new ideas and in- through the state.

Bomb Explosion Startles School

Bomb Maker Died in November and Effects Were Being Thrown From Window When Pipe-Shaped Instrument Exploded.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Boston, Feb. 4.—Hundreds of pupils in two public schools were today startled by a bomb explosion in the South End.

A boy cleaning the room of a man who just had died in a Warrentown street lodging house found a pipe-shaped instrument and tossed it out of a window. It exploded with a roar. Police and ambulances were rushed to Warrentown street but no one was found to be injured.

An investigation was being made of the dead man's effects to learn if he were the maker of other bombs.

The man from whose room the bomb was taken was Evangel Crinabati, an Argentinian. He died of natural causes on Thanksgiving Day. Police found that John Breen, 12 years old, son of Mrs. Emma Breen, proprietor of the lodging house, had thrown ten other bombs outside the house but that none of them exploded.

According to Mrs. Breen, the lodging housekeeper, Crinabati, the alleged bomb maker, came to her home in November. "He was a quiet sort of man," she said. "He kept by himself. At night we could hear him tinkering in his room."

"Nobody came to claim his effects, after he died, so today I decided to have my boy, John, clean out the room."

When John Breen took the machines from the dead man's room today he threw them into an ash pile, which stood by a brick fence separating the lodging house from the industrial school.

In the school were 350 pupils and there were fifty more pupils in a portable building near the school house. In the Abraham Lincoln school nearby were 200 pupils.

Window glass in the Breen house and nearby houses were shattered by the explosion.

Bakery and Two Stores Robbed

Sheriff Herman Wells was notified Tuesday that the bakery of Paul Lachmann at Lake Katrine and the grocery stores of Edward Benson and Joseph Greenberg at Ruby had been burglarized some time Monday night. Deputy Sheriffs Jocelyn and Ellsworth and Corporal Murphy of the State Troopers went to the scenes Tuesday afternoon. Investigation showed that entrance had been effected in the three places through windows. At the Lachmann bakery $100 had been taken, $3 taken from the Benson store and between $3 and $9, mostly in pennies, from the Greenberg store. A few articles also were taken from each place. No satisfactory clues as to the identity of burglars have been obtained but a thorough investigation will be made.

Newburgh Has Ten Cent Fare

Court adjourned to chambers. Petitions which made as a nation, and to call attention to the honorable part taken by the patriots of New York. Advantage should be taken of the occasion to re-awaken an interest in the heroic and self-sacrifice which insured our national existence. Newcomers to our land should be instructed in America's splendid past. For these purposes appropriate commemorative ceremonies should be arranged throughout the state.

Deed Unused City Street To Hospital

Unopened and Unused Portion of Jansen Avenue in Rear of Kingston City Hospital to Be Used for Building Purposes—Committee Appointed to Purchase New City Ambulance.

Alderman James J. Sweeney of the Third ward introduced a resolution Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the common council deeding to the Kingston City Hospital the unused and unopened portion of Jansen avenue in the rear of the hospital. The hospital is planning the erection a nurses' home on the property. The resolution was referred to the ways and means committee who will report later.

It was stated that the portion of Jansen avenue that the city would deed to the hospital was valueless for street purposes and about the only use that could be made of the site was to erect an addition to the hospital on it.

Mayor Block, who was present at the council session, when questioned by some of the aldermen regarding the matter stated that the consent of the abutting property owners had been obtained, and as that portion of the street could never be used for street purposes as it was on a cliff in the rear of the hospital, he saw no objection to the city deeding the land to the hospital for building purposes.

It is expected that the ways and means committee will report favorably on the Sweeney resolution at the next council session. Alderman Sweeney called attention to the fact that he had called for a report from the ways and means committee regarding its action on the purchase of a new city ambulance. The committee had not yet reported and he therefore moved that rule 11 be suspended and the chair appoint a committee of three to purchase an ambulance at a cost not to exceed $4,000.

Following some discussion of the matter the Sweeney resolution was adopted by a vote of 8 to 2 with Alderman Neice not voting. The two voting "No" were Alderman Belchert and Edinger. Those voting in favor were Alderman James J. Sweeney, Fox, Joy, Seitz, John T. Sweeney, Everett, Smith and Flannery. The aldermen absent from the meeting were Alderman Van Wageningen and Schlip.

President Dempsey appointed Alderman James J. Sweeney, Everett and Smith as a special committee to purchase the ambulance. Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

Two Women Seek Damages of City

Mrs. Laura Fox of 85 Spring street filed a claim for $19,000 damages against the city at the common council session Tuesday evening for injuries she claimed she had received in a fall on an icy sidewalk on January 5. Her claim was referred to the corporation counsel and the ways and means committee. The same action was taken in the claim of Mrs. Mary Sherman of No. 3 East Union street, who seeks $4,000 damages for injuries she claimed she received in a fall on an icy sidewalk on December 12 of last year.

Golden Now on Plumbing Board

Mayor Morris Block has filed with City Clerk Styles the appointment of William A. Golden of 287 Broadway as a member of the examining board of plumbers for a term expiring December 31, 1925.

Seek to Stop Autos Racing Fire Apparatus

Alderman J. Philip Belchert, Who Is Also Member of Fire Board, Asks Corporation Council to Draft an Ordinance to Abate Dangerous Practice.

Alderman J. Philip Belchert of the Second ward, who is also a member of the board of fire commissioners, at the regular monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday night introduced a resolution requesting Corporation Counsel James Jenkins to draft an ordinance prohibiting the racing of automobiles to fires and interfering with the fire apparatus.

Alderman Belchert said the matter should have immediate attention and requested that the proposed ordinance be drafted in time to submit at the next meeting of the common council. According to his resolution it would prohibit automobiles and other vehicles racing to fires when the fire alarm sounded, thus interfering with the operation of the fire apparatus answering the alarm. The automobiles gather so close to the scene of the fire that in case it should become necessary to send in a second alarm, the fire apparatus could not get through to the fire. He asked that a heavy penalty be imposed for violation of the proposed ordinance.

The resolution was referred to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins.

Want Snow Removed.

Alderman Joy of the Sixth ward introduced a resolution that the snow be removed from the streets in that ward. Referred to the board of public works.

Alderman Seitz of the Seventh ward introduced a similar resolution calling for the removal of snow from Abel street, Hudson street and German street. Referred to the board of public works.

Bus Committee to Meet.

Alderman Belchert called for a meeting of the bus committee which will be held at the city hall Thursday evening, February 12. At that time it is expected the bus committee will be ready to complete its report which will be submitted later to the council.

North Street in Bad Shape.

Alderman Fox of the Fifth ward introduced a resolution that the street superintendent inspect at once North street, from Delaware avenue to Willow street as it was in dangerous condition. He also asked that the water department make an inspection at the corner of Willow and North streets to determine if there is a break in the water main as the ice and water there is from two to three feet in depth, and makes a dangerous condition that needs immediate attention. The resolution was referred to the board of public works and water department.

Alderman Belchert introduced a resolution that the board of public works keep the sidewalk in front of two vacant lots owned by the Hutton estate between Bruyn avenue and Ten Broeck avenue, free of snow and charge the same to the owner. Referred to the board of public works.

Bills and claims were read and audited and the council then adjourned to Tuesday evening, February 17.

"Mopping Up" the Bootleg Trail

Federal Prohibition Agents Bay Liquor by Automobile Load and Then Seize More—Thirty-Seven Raids Net Goods Worth $100,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4.—With thirty raids in seven cities and villages netting $100,000 worth of liquors, Federal prohibition agents today were planning to continue "mopping up" the so-called bootleg trail between Albany and Plattsburg.

"Now we are going after the men higher up," declared R. Q. Merrick, of New York, divisional dry agent, who personally led the raiding party of 35 Federal agents along the bootleg trail.

The largest haul was made in Plattsburg where 15 agents raided a "bootleg storeroom" and confiscated liquors worth $40,000.

A group of warships were used today by United States Commissioners Lester T. Hubbard and turned over to the dry agents. Many additional raids will be made along the bootleg trail, according to the prohibition officials. The raids followed investigations started last December by special agents from the New York city office. The agents it was said "left in the bootleggers in Plattsburg and other places in the north country, and even went so far as to buy homes by the bootleggers. Seven raids were made in Albany, nine in Plattsburg, five in a cluster of towns and one each in Catskill, Newburgh and Troy.

At Catskill it was reported that bootleggers had been arrested and their homes searched. The agents also raided a bootlegger's home in Plattsburg and seized a large quantity of liquor. The agents also raided a bootlegger's home in Plattsburg and seized a large quantity of liquor. The agents also raided a bootlegger's home in Plattsburg and seized a large quantity of liquor.

More Antitoxin Needed in Nome

Local Health Officer Using Supply Received by Dog Train Despite Fact It Was Frozen, But Officials Fear Further Spread of Epidemic.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Nome, Alaska, Feb. 4.—Nome's diphtheria epidemic continued unabated today.

Dr. Curtis Welch's official statement showed a total of 23 cases today. There were 31 suspects and more than 100 contacts.

There have been 10 new cases in the last five days. Dr. Welch is using the antitoxin rushed here by dog team relays over nearly 700 miles of icy tundra with the presumption that its freezing en route has not harmed it. He said he believed freezing had not taken away its force and that with the 300,000 units received Monday and the additional supplies on the way he would be able to make progress in the fight against the plague.

The state board of health appealed to Governor Scott C. Howe at Juneau to rush additional serum by airplane. They urged the governor to have an airplane dispatched here immediately and informed him that difficulties regarding a suitable landing place could be overcome by having the flyers land on the huge ice field just west of Nome in the Bering Sea.

Members of the board said they feared the present supply would be exhausted before an airplane arrived now, even if plans for hurrying the serum were expedited.

Among the victims today was Sigfred Seppella, daughter of Leonard Seppella, the champion musher, winner of the Nome dog derby, who aided in bringing the serum here by dog team. She is reported dangerously ill.

Gunnar Kassen, the master musher who brought the serum into Nome, was recovering from his fearful trip. He was suffering, it was learned, from a frozen chin and hands.

Kassen, it was revealed today, made the last leg of the trip along the rocky coast while a fierce wind was blowing so strong that at times it almost swept man and dogs carrying the precious serum into the sea.

At one stage of the trip it was necessary to climb a hill four miles long in a blinding snow storm.

Kassen, questioned regarding his trip, told of stopping to breathe on the icy ledge of his dogs, which were frozen together. The mercury stood at forty below zero on part of the trip.

Four of his dogs were badly frozen and may die. Leonard Seppella, who made a portion of the trek to Nome with the antitoxin in record time, was resting along the way. He was expected to arrive here today.

Half of Owners Without Plates

Ulster County Motor Vehicle Owners Slow to Secure 1925 License Plates, Indicating That Half of Them Have Laid Up Their Cars.

There has been a considerable dropping off in the number of applications for motor car license plates during the past two weeks at the local motor vehicle bureau, 237 Fair street. Of the 15,000 license plates for pleasure cars sent to Ulster county by the state motor vehicle department, that being its estimate of the number needed here for 1925, 7,500 have been issued of that number 825 were issued since January 6. These have been 2,800 license plates for commercial cars issued by the local bureau since January 9, which makes a total of 2,212. Indications are that about half of the number of cars in Ulster county have been laid up for the winter.

Line at Judge Jenkins' Home.

Small crowds of people gathered at Judge Jenkins' home on Delaware street today after the announcement that the judge would be in the city today. A line of people gathered outside the judge's home and the firemen put out the crowd. Some damage was done to the judge's car.

In the Surrogate's Court.

In surrogate court letters of administration were granted to the estate of T. J. Smith of Kingston, who died on January 2, 1925. The estate is valued at $500. Letters of administration were also granted to the estate of T. J. Smith of Kingston, who died on January 2, 1925. The estate is valued at $500.

Kingston now has a zoning ordinance, which was adopted Tuesday evening by the common council by a vote of 9 to 2. The zoning committee, of which Alderman Urban G. Edinger is chairman, recommended its adoption.

The new ordinance provides for the appointment by the mayor of a board of appeals for a term of three years. This board will meet once a month and all meetings will be public. This is practically the only new addition to the ordinance as it was printed in The Freeman last year.

When the roll call was taken on the question of adoption, Alderman James J. Sweeney and Fox did not vote. Those voting in favor of the ordinance were Alderman Belchert, Joy, Seitz, John T. Sweeney, Edinger, Neice, Everett, Smith and Flannery.

In bringing up the zoning ordinance for adoption, Alderman Edinger submitted the following report:

As chairman of the committee on zoning, I would respectfully report that on January 20, 1925, your committee on zoning held a meeting at the city hall and unanimously adopted the zoning ordinance drawn up by the corporation counsel from the tentative or "Edinger ordinance" submitted by me. The tentative or "Edinger ordinance" was compiled by me at the request of His Honor, Mayor Block, and was submitted to him some time ago. It was compiled by me from 28 zoning ordinances now functioning successfully in 28 cities in this and other states and contains the salient and most important features in these ordinances. It is now on file in the office of the city clerk and will be found to be very useful in case amendments to this ordinance are required at any time. The ordinance drafted from the tentative one and now presented for your consideration has the endorsement of his honor, the mayor, and Corporation Counsel Judge Jenkins, and has been unanimously adopted by the zoning committee of your honorable body. The ordinance has been on file for thirty days and every effort has been made to induce the public to examine the same and become familiar with its salient features. It is now in the hands of the corporation counsel, and I move its submission to your honorable body for consideration.

Every member of this council has been furnished with a copy of the ordinance in question and has had ample time to study the same and become familiar with its scope and should be able by this time to decide whether it will be beneficial or expedient to adopt it. The matter has been under consideration for nearly a year and it is hoped it will be acted on by your honorable body this evening.

While I am in favor of a more drastic zoning ordinance, I realize that a start should be made somewhere and as the present ordinance seems to "touch the high spots," I am in favor of its adoption, leaving it to you, your honorable body, in the future amending and broadening in scope if you see fit to do so at any time, in which case the tentative ordinance will be found to be very convenient to and save much time and trouble.

Thanking the members of the zoning committee for their loyal support and Judge Jenkins, the efficient corporation counsel, for his efforts and last but by no means least, the press of the city for their generous publicity and support, I respectfully submit to you the ordinance.

BRONXIAN TRADES MEN FOR "COTTON" THERAPY.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Feb. 4.—Announcement was made today by the Bronx National League Club that it had traded Outfielder Bernie Neale to Boston for Infielder J. A. "Cotton" Timmer. The deal, which is subject to the approval of Wilbert Robinson, Brooklyn manager, who is recovering from a recent illness in Baltimore, was made public through the local office of Charles E. ## STORMY PETREL OF BRITTANY

Douarnenez is Waving Red Flag in Face of Republic of France.

Washington, D. C.—Douarnenez is running true to form. Newspapers say the town is waving the red flag in the face of the republic of France, but the Bretons have been known to display the same restive spirit at various times in the past, according to a bulletin from Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Though the Bretons, in the heart of whose homeland, so many of the American dough boys landed when they disembarked at Brest, are peaceful and home-loving, they have, sometimes rebelled. In the Fifth century a brother-in-law of Duke Francis II wrote his kinsman: 'Monsieur, I declare to God, I would rather be the ruler of a million of wild boars than of such a people as are your Bretons.'"

People Pious and Seafaring.
"The cursory traveler would not suspect the sleepy little village, whose fishing smacks with their red and brown sails and blue and brown fish nets make its waterfront a happy haunt of artists of all nationalities, of being susceptible to emotional outbursts. But the relentless fight which these men must put up against the hungry, dangerous waters of the ocean have given them a lively but melancholy imagination, obstinate determination, and a plety as distinguished as their bravery."

"In those early days the little seaside towns with their counts and other dignitaries—sometimes as important as bishops like those of Rouen, or even their dukes like those of Nantes, had more individuality than they boast today. But Douarnenez, with about 15,000 people, is one of the most active of the sardine fishing centers along the Breton coast."

"Its location is ideal—on a beautiful blue bay nicked out of the westernmost peninsula along the French coast, with a snug little harbor of its own called 'Le Port de Bismar' behind the mole of which the small sailboats go for shelter. And the Breton men will tell you 'I like my boat better with my sail and my arms for motors.'"

"About 20,000 religious enthusiasts rub elbows in the Douarnenez streets with artists and natives during the latter part of August of each year, for the last Sunday in the month is the Pardon of Sainte Anne-la-Palud. The various 'Pardons' of Brittany—feasts during which indulgences are granted—and the numerous wayside shrines have combined to give this portion of France, which is at the same time both patriotic and alien, the sobriquet of 'The Land of Calvaries and Pardons.'"

"In this day of the world-wide use of the plain business suit and standardized dress for American and European women, the customs and costumes of Brittany, like those of the Island of Marken in the Netherlands, give an opera bouffe effect, which the gorgeous sunsets, the wild seas, the rock-bound shores, and the great mountains and plains dotted with menhir only accentuate."

Legend Embodied in Opera.
"The intemperance of the land and the people is at once so evident that Lalo immediately saw in its legends the basis for his opera, 'Le Roi d'Ys.' The story goes that King Gradlon of that ancient walled city of Ys, which stood on the shores of the Bay of Douarnenez, had a beautiful daughter who was the wickedest person in the city. The king had been warned by his councillor, St. Corenthin of Quimper, but one night while her father slept Dahut stole from around his neck the gold key which unlocked the gates of the dykes and locks of Ys and gave it to one of her lovers. Shortly afterwards torrents of water flooded the city; the king took his daughter on the saddle behind him and fled, but a voice commanded him that she must be left behind. The king alone escaped, the city and all its inhabitants being submerged beneath the waters of the Bay of Douarnenez."

"Douarnenez means literally, the land of the Isle, from the Ile Tristan just off the coast, named for the valiant Tristan of Leonais, one of the knights of the Round Table. Once the island's interest was religious, but now it is commercial: since the old days its priory has been superseded by a lighthouse and a sardine factory."

"Concarneau and Douarnenez are the Gloucester, Mass., and the Rockport, Maine, of the French coast, each vying with the other for the importance of being the best-known fishing center."

"For the connoisseur nothing rivals the Brittany sardine, which is so simply prepared for market that it is a wonder that some other people have not captured and standardized the product. The 'corpora's strips,' or the 'caviary corpora's,' as the little fishes are called in France, are packed in the familiar tin boxes, sealed oil is poured over them, the boxes are colored and then boiled for about an hour, and the harvest of the sea is ready for the discriminating epicures of the world."

SOME FRENCH PREFERENCES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The newest jewelry motif is the bow-knot. It is the basis of design for all sorts of things, from real to novelty jewels and from shoe-buckles to millinery ornaments. The lovers' knot idea is carried out sometimes in filigree of platinum or gold, as well as in studded effects involving pearls, rhinestones, or colored stones.

Another novelty which has to do with the little accessories of the costume is the introduction of pompadour, or flowered taffeta for scarfs. Scarfs have become so firmly entrenched in the hearts of color lovers especially that they are prepared to welcome anything which, retaining color, introduces an added novelty feature.

Fabrics run the gamut from sturdier wools to the most diaphanous chiffons, but among the newer effects are flowered taffetas in the exquisite colorings of Marie Antoinette's and Pompadour's time. Bright colors continue to be exploited for day wear, and pastel ones for evening. Among the newer colors is one called 'Arbre de Rose,' very rich and relatively dark; while, of course, the violet shades, which is the French term for the violet range, retains prestige.

DEFINING THE WORD "MESS."

According to rumors Governor Smith was annoyed at the use Lieutenant Governor Lowman made of the word "mess" in relation to the management of the state fair. Taking the gossip around the Capitol, the governor said it conveyed an idea that the affairs of the commission were not as they should be; in fact, that it created an impression that there was something wrong. Lieutenant Governor Lowman, however, used the word advisedly. If extravagance is shown in the purchase of gasoline and in hotel bills, the hotel account of one individual being reported at approximately two thousand dollars, and seven thousand dollars having been spent for gasoline, there would be few who would quibble over the use of the word "mess."

Lieutenant Governor Lowman did not charge anybody with wrong doing. He said that from what he could learn the accounts of the fair were in a mess, there being a deficit and other facts available to make the use of the word "mess" perfectly proper. Things can be in such a mess that those responsible are shown to be inefficient, even though they are not charged in the remotest manner with wrong intent. This the lieutenant governor has said a dozen times since the subject came before the state board of estimate and control.

That anybody should be peaved over a little word like "mess" seems strange, particularly anybody connected with the Democratic party. The Democratic party, accepting general opinion, always is in a mess. Perhaps the Democratic party did not get itself into a mess in the appointment of Murray Hulbert as a member of the state park commission when Hulbert was president of the New York board of aldermen. But, whatever word one wants to use, the situation that resulted closely resembles a mess. The comptroller of New York city said to Hulbert, "You are no longer president of the board of aldermen. Under the law, you cannot hold two jobs at the same time."

Governor Smith appointed Hulbert to the park commission, and the governor naturally is concerned over the opinion of Attorney General Ottinger. The latter said that, as a matter of law, there should be a special election to choose a successor to Hulbert as president of the board of aldermen, which would cost New York city $500,000. Governor Smith, it must be remembered, appointed Hulbert one of the park commission when Hulbert was president of the board of aldermen. Throwing New York city into a condition of this sort might not warrant the use of the word "mess," but the ordinary person who does not split hairs would also use the word "mess" in this instance and feel confident that it was a proper word.

THE DEFEATED AMENDMENT.

At this writing two states, California and Arkansas, have ratified the Child Labor Amendment and it has been rejected by the two Carolinas, the two Dakotas, Washington, Kansas, Ohio, Delaware, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma. Counting Massachusetts, which rejected it by referendum, the thirteen states necessary for its defeat are already on record, although more than two-thirds of the states have not yet taken action. This prompt defeat of another amendment to the Federal Constitution is hailed as a victory for the state rights or local self-government principle, but the western states whose prompt action has contributed most to the result have never shown much interest in the state rights principle and their action is more likely due to the dissemination of agriculturalists to yield to a Washington bureau of boys between 16 and 18 years. The inexplicably radical limit of 16 years was enough by itself to defeat the amendment. If the limit had been fixed at 14 years, as in many states, the result might have been different, or it might have been necessary for all the states to act before the amendment could have been reported.

Recently advanced child labor laws and the few delinquent states should now come promptly into line. In so doing they will not only perform their duty but exercise wise precaution with a view to stop or render ineffective further Federal child labor amendment agitation. There will be such agitation, but it will be deprived of excuse and made hopeless, at least for many years, if all the states do their duty in this connection. In view of the charge that the industrial states were selfishly seeking to defeat this amendment, it is highly interesting to find that the agricultural states delivered the knockout blow before the industrial states except Massachusetts—had acted.

That Body of Yours

SAVING COAL AND PREVENTING ILLNESS.

In one of our large cities a controversy is waging in the Board of Education, regarding the heating of the schools.

Coal costs money, and one of the school trustees has discovered that in St. Louis, a tremendous saving in coal perhaps twenty per cent., has been attained by the simple method of moistening the air before it reaches the school room.

It was found that with the moisture in the room "dried out" by the heat, more heat was necessary to keep the youngsters comfortable. In other words if moisture were added to the air going into the room, the same amount of moisture that is found in the air in summer, then a temperature ten degrees lower could be maintained in the room, and the youngsters were quite comfortable.

Now water doesn't cost money and coal does so that to raise the temperature this extra ten degrees, was where the money was saved or lost, being as I said above, perhaps twenty per cent. of the fuel bill. But the point that interested me more than the coal bill, was the effect of this dry atmosphere on the health of the youngsters. This dry air takes too much of the moisture from the body. The skin itself, and the lining of the nose and throat, do not have sufficient moisture to function properly.

The air going into the lungs needs moisture, and as it hasn't the moisture content it should have, it simply takes it from the nose and throat, leaving them dry and irritated.

Everybody blames the heat of our houses in winter for the nose and throat irritations, which seem to clear up when the house can be opened up to the outside air.

These catarrhal conditions, as they are called, which sometimes lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, and even tuberculosis all seem to flourish about the time our homes are heated the most. However, there is no question but this terrible dryness of the heated atmosphere, when the moisture is only one-half or one-fourth what it should be, is a big factor in irritating the nose and throat and starting the trouble. Putting vessels of water in the rooms, patent appliances containing water on radiators, or appliances to the furnace itself, all help to moisten the air of the home.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Alligerville, Feb. 4.—There was no church service Sunday afternoon on account of the bad roads. Those who listened in on their radios at 10 o'clock Sunday night had the pleasure of again hearing the Hampton Institute Quartet in their beautiful "Spirituals," which have been broadcasting their past five Sunday nights. Sunday night's concert was the last one given before their return south.

Mrs. Jacob Steen spent the past week at Mohonk Lake visiting Mrs. Benjamin Helmer.

John Russell Lawrence and Calvin Rider have passed the regents' examinations and are now ready for high school.

Will DeGraw of Kew-Forest braved the bad roads Friday night and took a load to the hot roast beef supper given in the Reformed Church at Stone Ridge. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith and daughter, Helen, Garrison, Jennie and James Young went from here.

Harriet Christiansa, the efficient little church organizer, will begin taking lessons of Prof. Dodge, Kingston, this week.

The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. Oliver Davis at her home in Kew-Forest Wednesday afternoon.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

AMERICAN EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Today is the anniversary of the consecration of the first Episcopal bishop of the American Church, the Rev. Dr. William White, who was consecrated Bishop of Pennsylvania by the Archbishop Canterbury 138 years ago today, February 4, 1787.

Bishop White was not only the first American bishop in the line of succession from Canterbury, but he was the presiding officer of the first Episcopal convention held in America in 1789. He wrote the constitution of the church, when, after the Revolution, a new organization of Anglican adherents was organized. With Bishop Seabury of Connecticut he revised the Book of Common Prayer for use in the American Episcopal Church. Bishop White was a native of Philadelphia and he died there in 1836.

BIRTHDAY OF THE "WEATHER-MAN."

The first organized attempt of the United States government to collect and disseminate meteorological data was made when the weather bureau was established fifty-five years ago today. The bureau was originally in charge of the signal corps of the army, but in 1891 was reorganized under the department of agriculture. Before the organization of the bureau, the Smithsonian Institution had conducted an unofficial weather bureau, organized in 1849. The Meteorological Society of London, the first English weather bureau, was formed in 1826. Weather observations have been taken at Greenwich since 1848. Storm warnings were first issued in Holland in 1850, and in the following year the system was adopted by the English Bureau.

ANNE OF GREAT BRITAIN.

To a girl born at Twickenham, near London, 261 years ago, the second daughter of James the Second, then Duke of York, was destined to fall the lot of bringing to an end the long reign of the royal House of Stuart. Married to Prince George of Denmark when she was 18, Anne ascended the throne of Great Britain when she was 28. Weak in character, she was covered first by Marlborough and his wife, afterwards by Mrs. Masham. Although she gave birth to thirteen children, not one of them survived to claim the throne of England on her death in 1714. As a result the British crown passed to the Elector of Hanover, who thus became George I of Great Britain and founded the present dynasty.

QUESTION—"What material evidence have you to offer that you can get desired results in all kinds of diseased conditions?"

ANSWER:—"The success of any health system rests in the results that system accomplishes. The Science of Chiropractic, a drugless system, has only its results in restoring the sick to health to account for its phenomenal growth. Today it is a tried and proven Science, established with more than 20,000 Practitioners, and secure in its future with millions of followers—patients suffering with every conceivable kind of disease. RESULTS count. Results represent the very best of material evidence of the worth of anything. Chiropractic is founded upon the idea that health is a matter of the proper adjustment of the human spine; that disease is the result of nerve impingement cutting off the free transmission of functional energy supplied by the brain to the organs involved. Chiropractic is known by its RESULTS. The competent Chiropractor is known by his patients. All of which is "material evidence."

Stop Factories Using Soft Coal

Forty-seven residents of the Second Ward Petition Common Council to Abate Nuisance—Alderman Belcher Moved Corporation Counsel Draft Ordinance.

Forty-seven residents of the Second ward petitioned the common council Tuesday evening to abate the nuisance resulting from the use of soft coal in the factories of the Jacobson plant the silk mills and the barrel work. The petition had been filed with Alderman J. Philip Belcher of that ward who brought it to the attention of the council and introduced a resolution that the corporation counsel draft an ordinance to abate the nuisance at once, if there is no ordinance already on the statute books of the city. The resolution was referred to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins.

Alderman James J. Sweeney said that if the council was going to put the damper on the factories let us put it on the Lister & Delaware railroad too. What's good for the goose is good for the gander.

The suggestion of Alderman Sweeney was not acted upon. Other matters considered by the council will be found elsewhere.

Never Kiss

A person with a cold

Colds are spread by kissing, by sneezing and by coughs. Beware of these germs. Be careful if you have them—avoid them if you haven't. A cold means danger and discomfort. Nobody knows what the end will be. Millions are wrecked by colds.

Yet a cold can be broken in 24 hours. The fever and headache will subside, and La Grippe can be stopped in 3 days. It is folly to suffer colds, and compel others to avoid you. The way is with Hill's Cascara-Quinine. It is so sure that very druggist guarantees it. So reliable that million homes have adopted it. So perfect that 25 years have developed no way to improve it. It does all that is necessary. It checks the cold. It removes the poison caused by colds. It tones the entire system with two tones of high order. It restores vitality.

This is the best way to do it. Your own neighbors know it. Millions have come to laugh at colds, because they know what Hill's does.

Once you use Hill's tablets you will always use them to fight colds. You will insist on the genuine, and won't delay. Every hour lost at the start means more hours of discomfort.

A Combination of Hands, Brain, and Heart

In one of Ruskin's essays he talks about art, and points out the difference between manufacture, craft and art. How would you define them? What does "manufacture" mean? You know from your music lessons as well as from your Latin lessons, that "manus" means hand and "facto" means do, or make. Therefore, manu- facture is to make with the hands. Nowadaya however, machines have been invented to help the hands, and thus more can be made in a given time. The fine work of the brain is not required but is left to others who show the workers what to do.

Craft, he tells us, is anything that is done with the hands and the brain, so more mental control is required, and skill results. Thus each work- man depends upon his own brain and in- vents his own methods of producing results, and executes his own ideas.

Art, he asserts, is that which is produced by the hands, brain and heart. Thus, painting, sculpture and music, are on a higher plane because they require the co-operation of the head and heart (soul or spirit, some may prefer to call it). Nothing can be called real art which is produced only by the hand and head; although it may be very clever, precise or skill- ful. It lacks the inner appeal—the appeal of the heart.

Many Ingenious Ways of Ascertaining Time

In the sixteenth century, in polished Parisian society, there came into vogue the etiquette of the watch. One of the rules was that it should not be consulted in the salon, such an act being taken as an indication that the owner was tired of his company.

An ingenious watchmaker therefore brought out a watch with raised fig- ures and a fairly solid hand. When the owner wished to know the time he slipped a surreptitious finger into his pocket, passed it along the pointer and read the hour as the blind man reads Braille.

The watch with the luminous dial, from which the time may be told in the dark had a number of strange prototypes. One of the most curious was the timekeeper invented by a celebrated member of the French academy, M. de Villager. He had constructed a clock which, face up- wards, was attached to the head of his bed. In the place of the figure- marking the hours, there were small cups which sunk into the dial, and were filled with 12 kinds of spices.

In the night M. de Villager would moisten a finger, pass it along the pointer, dip it into the cup to which it pointed and taste the spice. The clockman might stand for three- quarters of an hour for four o'clock and so on.—Kansas City Times.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Boonesborough, Symbol of Frontier America

Boonesborough is more than Kentucky's most famous fort. It is a national landmark whose palisaded walls symbolize the American frontier and its name stands as a monument to the memory of Daniel Boone, the one great American pioneer. Brief as was its existence, there are few forts with a more romantic history.

In 1775 Col. Richard Henderson, a North Carolina land speculator, sent Daniel Boone to survey a road into Kentucky, the "Dark and Bloody Ground," and to build a fort there. Boone set out with 20 men and, after several skirmishes with hostile Indians, he reached his goal April 1, and on April 29 began building a fort.

Since Boonesborough was typical of all frontier forts, it is worthy of description. At each of the four corners was a two-story blockhouse. A series of little cabins placed close together, with their roofs sloping inward, was built along the sides, and the space in between these cabins was filled up with palisades. There were heavy gates in front and back and the whole fort inclosed a space 280 feet long and 150 feet wide. The walls, which were about twelve feet high, were loopholed for rifle fire, and there was hardly a nail or piece of iron in it.

From the date of its establishment there was always something thrilling taking place. In July, 1776, occurred the capture of the Boone and Callaway girls and their romantic rescue soon afterwards. The next year the Indians attacked Boonesborough and Simon Kenton made his famous rescue of Daniel Boone. In September of that year the British and Indians again besieged the fort after they had called out the frontiersmen for a council, and their treacherous attack under the white flag had failed. During this siege the Indians tried to get into the fort by digging under it. "What are you red rascals doing there?" one old frontiersman yelled to the savages in their own tongue. "Digging," was the return yell. "How you all to the devil soon; what you do?" "Oh," was the cheerful reply, "we're digging to meet you and intend to bury 500 of you."

Such were the incidents which make up the history of Boonesborough. After the Indian wars were over this pioneer station lost its importance and never became the metropolis of the state of Kentucky, as it once promised to do. Today Boonesborough is noted as a pleasure resort where hundreds go every year to play—a strange contrast to the grim scenes it witnessed in the days of Daniel Boone.

Kipling's "Mowgli" Not Myth or Imagination

Is Kipling's Mowgli an imaginary child or did it exist? Can children be raised with and by wolves, as Mowgli was?

In India there seems to be no doubt but what "wolf children" have existed and still exist. In fact, several such cases have been recorded by trustworthy witnesses. It is a curious fact that wolf children are always boys. One of these children was recently found on the bank of the Guntur river. Two soldiers discovered the child in the company of two wolves. The child ran on hands and feet. It had the intelligence of a dog, but it understood very quickly the signs made to it. A short time after its capture the child was visited by three female wolves, evidently with hostile intention. However, they began to play with the child after having saluted it.

Another wolf child was found in Sindh. It had all the characteristics of a wild animal. It drank as dogs are wont to drink and it preferred meat to all other food. Clothes, which were put on with trouble, were immediately torn off by the child. These wild children of the jungle die early in life. There are cases, though, when they at least reach adolescence.

In one case a man and his wife in Kurpa were busy mowing their meadow. While they were working a wolf kidnaped their baby. Six years later they traced it to the company of a wolf and three small wolves. The child was caught after a violent struggle and was recognized by a scar. It would eat nothing but raw meat, and disappeared a year later into the jungle in spite of most careful watching.—From National Zeitung. Translated for the Milwaukee Journal.

Worth Waiting For

One depositor of a Rochester (N. Y.) bank had an unexpected cause for thanksgiving. He called at the bank with a passbook that had not been presented for interest since 1907. When told there would be a little delay in writing up the passbook he felt refused to wait and only did so after considerable persuasion. He apparently considered what interest might be due as of little importance. The passbook, when presented, showed a balance of about $1,100, and was returned to him with $1,000 credited in interest and a total balance of $2,100.

Perfectly Natural

"My stars," ejaculated Mrs. Johnson upon her return from a call on a neighbor, "Misses Spradling told me that they had some feller shot and killed his brother-in-law at the Christian camp down there again over beyond Mount Pisgah."

"Aw, well, when a feller is a brother-in-law and then you and your son to get—pew—shot," returned Gus Johnson of Rumors Ridge.—Kansas City Star.

Heroine of Nome Epidemic

MISS EMILY MORGAN

The outstanding heroine of the Nome, Alaska, diphtheria epidemic has been Miss Emily Morgan, of Wichita, Kansas, the only Red Cross nurse in that vicinity. Day and night she has been with her patients in the wards of the Maynard-Columbia Hospital, helping to keep down the death toll, while out in the bleak wastes, at 50 below zero, hardy mushers were cracking their whips over jaded dogs to rush in, in record breaking time, 300,000 units of antitoxin that were counted on to check the epidemic. From her hospital, she went also to the huts of the natives and the igloos of the Eskimos, facing death daily in her mission of mercy.

East Is East and West Is West But They Do Meet In the Cities of the Holy Land

When a generation ago Rudyard Kipling penned his famous lines—East is East and West is West But never the twain shall meet—the restoration of the Holy Land was no more than a dream. But now with the rebuilding of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine advancing rapidly, East and West are successfully mingling in the ancient country. With the introduction of modern agricultural methods, with the building of up-to-date houses and cities, with the widening and paving of the old muddy thoroughfares that passed for streets, the Holy Land still maintains that peculiar charm and glamour of the East and that atmosphere of sanctity which has made it the shrine of the principal religions of the world. The meeting of East and West, of the old and the new, is dramatically evident in the ancient cities of Palestine, particularly in Jerusalem itself. Around the Holy City and the other Biblical cities, Jaffa, Haifa and Tiberias, modern suburbs are springing up, promoted largely by the Palestine Foundation Fund, of which Samuel Untermyer is President in this country and which draws its principal financial support from American Jews. Every convenience of the American home is found in the houses of these suburbs, according to Dr. Joseph Silverman of New York, one of America's most noted rabbis, who recently returned from an extended visit to Palestine. In Jerusalem itself, under the direction of expert town planners, the narrow, crooked streets are being widened and paved and the principal thoroughfare of the city, Kings George Avenue, which now resembles the boulevard of a great American or European metropolis with its tree-lined sidewalks and grass plots, has just been officially opened by Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner.

Sidewalks, an innovation for Palestine, are being built throughout the city, while all the streets are being named and marked with artistic green and white signs, another innovation for the ancient land. Traffic dart through the streets of Jerusalem and pedestrians have to dodge them as they do in American cities. And to protect its citizens the government of Jerusalem has just issued drastic anti-speed laws and has banned all auto horns, substituting bells for the incessant honking which disturbed the quiet of the ancient city.

The building, a temporary structure used since the earthquake and fire in 1923, was gutted with a loss of $150,000. This remarkable photo was taken just as the roof crashed in with a roar.

Girl Commercial Sculptor

Miss Merle Foster, a young Canadian girl, has found a calling that is bringing her success. She is a commercial sculptor. When an architect wants a wall or cornice decoration, a griffin or a gargoyle, he consults Miss Foster, who attended the art school in Toronto for six years, where she proved that she has a rare talent for modeling.

The first time that the girl saw a potter at his wheel she asked for the privilege of trying her hand in a new line of work and was amazed at the facility with which she turned out a vase, says a writer in the Argonaut. In a few months she had become an expert at the wheel and was able to give an exhibition of pottery in a large department store. Next she learned that there was a big field in the modeling of architectural details, medallions, fountains, garden urns and wall ornaments, and set about acquiring technical knowledge. When she had attained sufficient experience she opened her own studio and with her sister as business manager has been most successful.

Holy Land Shows America How To Keep Women and Children Happy Down On the Farm

How to keep women and children happy and contented down on the farm—the chief problem of American rural life—is being successfully solved in ancient Palestine. The Holy Land, a land of peace and plenty, where the women of Palestine are taught gardening, beekeeping, dairying, poultry-raising and given a general understanding of scientific farm methods. In addition to the special training of women farmers, the Palestine Foundation Fund, of which Samuel Untermyer, world lawyer, is President, maintains a series of agricultural experimental stations where valuable results have been cultivated, particularly in tobacco, which has become, in the short space of three years, one of the most important agricultural products in the Holy Land.

May Amputate Leg to Extricate Cave Explorer

Chicago Surgeons Sent to Cave Where Explorer Has Been Pinned Five Days by Boulder—Narrow Passage Adds to Difficulty of Rescue Work or Operation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Louisville, Ky., Feb. 4.—Dr. W. H. Hazlett and Dr. Harold Jones, both of Chicago, arrived here today and left at once by airplane for Cave City, Ky., to attempt release of Floyd Collins, held prisoner in Sand Cave by a falling boulder, by amputating his leg.

A second boulder has fallen on top of the one pinning Collins down, undoing all the work of drillers thus far and making rescue by means other than amputation absolutely impossible, it was learned here today.

Dr. Hazlett and Dr. Jones were sent to Kentucky to attempt rescue by a wealthy and public spirited Chicago woman who is defraying all expenses. Her name is withheld, but it is understood the physicians have been told to "spare no expense" in the humanitarian task of releasing Collins.

The Federal government provided the plane for the flight to Cave City. The operation, if successful, will set a precedent in medical annals. The place where Collins is imprisoned is 150 feet down and so narrow that it is barely possible for a human body to squeeze inside. He is trapped in a reclining position and only his upper leg is within reach of those who crawled to his rescue. Collins can give little or no assistance as his arms also are partly pinned.

The light will be poor, at best that afforded by flash lights, and the narrowing of the passage prevents free arm movement.

"We are especially afraid of excessive blood loss of the patient," Dr. Hazlett said, "for the amputation will have to be made high, almost to the waist line. Collins, of course is in a very weakened condition from his position and exposure. We are taking a number of the most recently perfected hemostats, or hemostatic forceps, to retard the blood flow when the knife severs large veins and arteries."

It will be impossible to administer general anesthetics, such as chloroform or ether, in the narrow confines of the cave the operator also would be likely to be anesthetized. For this reason we can use only local anesthetics."

Son's fear was expressed here that Dr. Hazlett would be unable to "squeeze" his way into the passage where Collins is held. Several rescuers have been unable to make their way through these passages and when volunteers have been asked for, small men were designated. Dr. Hazlett is not a small man.

Widespread Belief in Horsehoes as Talismans

The horsehoe is one of the very oldest talismans for warding good fortune that exists. The belief in its efficacy is held almost all over the world, and has been present since the dawn of history. You find it in Egypt and mailed to the threshold of the fel and wicker wigwags of the house of Turbans.

In medieval England, especially in the southwest, horsehoes were often nailed on church doors to keep evil spirits and witches. There were to be two large ones on the south door of the parish church of Ashby-Park in Leicestershire, says the Punch.

There are records of a number of horsehoes having been nailed up for protection on the gates of Oakenham castle, in Shropshire, which was built by William de Ferrers, son of the first earl. Every gentleman visiting it was made to furnish a shoe of the horse on which he rode or pay a forfeit of money. Quite a number ordered the horsehoes of parties with a shoe rather than pay the small sum.

Probably the oldest continuous display of a horsehoe for luck to be found in Britain is the case of a shoe nailed up at Horsehoe corner, in the city of Lancaster. The first one was cast by the horse of John of Gwent, when he was riding through the street during his famous years ago.

THE SANDMAN STORY

MR. FOX, MR. COON, MR. DOG AND JIMMY SKUNK

MR. COON and Mr. Fox knew that Mr. Dog was very curious—he was always looking into places and nosing about where they thought he had no business to be.

"Why he does not stay at home, I can't see," said Mr. Fox as they talked it over one day. "He has plenty to do hunting rats in the barn and watching the house. Now why he should come all the way into our woods and poke about is more than I can tell."

"I have a notion, Racco, that some one should teach that inquisitive Mr. Dog a lesson. If only we could get him to poke about in some place where he would get his nose bitten or scratched, or something, he would stay at home afterward, perhaps, and mind his own affairs."

Just then they saw Jimmy Skunk meandering along, and Mr. Fox slapped his sides and began to laugh. "I have it, Racco," he said. "We will lead Mr. Dog to the home of Jimmy Skunk. He is young and I doubt if he ever saw one of Jimmy's family. Let's watch and see where Jimmy lives and then we will find Mr. Dog."

"That's all right for you, Mr. Fox," replied Mr. Coon. "You can run faster than I and you know that unless there is a tree nearby I might get caught. I am going to run up the first tree I come to and stay there."

"Oh, you are a fraidy cat!" said Mr. Fox. "Come along, Racco, and have some fun with Mr. Dog."

"I have not seen you since that day, either, Mr. Fox," said Mr. Coon. "Didn't you get a little of Jimmy's perfume on your coat as well as Mr. Fox? I thought I saw you rolling in the dirt."

"Oh, I was just rolling over laughing at Mr. Dog the way he dropped his tail and ran home," said Mr. Fox. And as Mr. Coon was holding his paw over his nose Mr. Fox suddenly remembered he had an important engagement and ran off down the path.

"I wonder if I shall ever get that smell out of my coat," he said. "How Jimmy Skunk can live in the house with himself is more than I know."

But as Mr. Coon could not be persuaded, Mr. Fox ran off alone to see where Jimmy lived, and then he ran up to the farm so Mr. Dog could get sight at him and chase him.

It all worked out as Mr. Fox had planned it until he let Mr. Dog see him, and then Mr. Fox's plan did not work just as he had expected, though he led Mr. Dog straight to the doorway of Jimmy Skunk's home.

Jimmy was sitting outside in the sun, and when Mr. Fox came bounding along with Mr. Dog at his heels Jimmy was frightened and angry, as well. He didn't care whether it was Mr. Fox or Mr. Dog who disturbed him. Just to make sure, he pounced both as they dashed past by sprinkling them with his smelly fluid, which he carries for protection.

Mr. Dog did not go very far. He stopped and rubbed his nose and then dropped his tail and ran for home.

Mr. Coon up in the tree saw it all. "I guess he won't call me a fraidy cat any more," he mused. "I am glad I had sense enough not to try to teach Mr. Dog any lessons. Mrs. Coon wouldn't have let me in the house with that odor on my coat."

It was a long time after that Mr. Coon and Mr. Fox met again. "Seen anything of Mr. Dog around here lately?" inquired Mr. Fox.

Mr. Coon replied that he hadn't since the day he saw him chasing Mr. Fox through the woods.

"Guess he got a lesson that day," said Mr. Fox boldly. "He won't care to run into Jimmy again, and he will stay away from here. We shan't be bothered with him again."

"I have not seen you since that day, either, Mr. Fox," said Mr. Coon. "Didn't you get a little of Jimmy's perfume on your coat as well as Mr. Fox? I thought I saw you rolling in the dirt."

Dist. Governor Visits Rotary

Delivered Interesting Address on the Principles of Rotary at Club's Meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

District Governor Alex Caven was the guest of honor at today's noon meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club at the Y. M. C. A., and spoke briefly. The address of the day was delivered by former District Governor Ray Knoppel, who spoke on the principles of Rotary.

There was the usual large attendance of Rotarians at the meeting with several guests, including Edward Rushmore, secretary of the New York City Rotary Club, and several visitors from the Poughkeepsie Rotary Club.

Professor Harry P. Dodge, who leads the Rotarians in song, was unavoidably detained and in his absence his place was taken successfully by Sam Souder. Sam's abilities as an organist are well known, but he can also qualify in the role of song leader. As usual, Harry Malenbender presided at the piano.

The Rotarians were served with a chicken dinner with all the trimmings by members of the good things had been tucked away beneath the vest of the dinner, President Fessenden called upon the Rotarians to introduce their guests, which was done in an ancient Rotarian style.

The speaker of the day was Ray Knoppel, who has spoken before the Kingston Rotary Club at other times. He devoted the greater part of his address to Rotary International, and explained its meaning and purposes. He briefly sketched the growth of Rotary not only in the United States but throughout the world. He illustrated his address with a number of humorous stories that were not only funny but to the point. It was one of the best addresses on what Rotary stood for that the club has heard in a long time.

Col. Forbes Gets Limit Sentence

Former Head of Veterans' Bureau and Chicago Millionaire Contractor or Each Sentenced to Two Years' Imprisonment at Leavenworth Penitentiary.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Ill., Feb. 4.—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the Veterans' Bureau, and John W. Thompson, Chicago and St. Louis millionaire contractor, who were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government by a federal jury last Friday, were today each sentenced to two years' imprisonment at Leavenworth Penitentiary. This is the maximum sentence under the law.

In pronouncing sentence, the court intimated a motion for a new trial, plus for mitigation and declared it believed the maximum sentence "too limited."

Attorneys for the defense declared the case would be appealed to the supreme court of the United States.

A thirty days' stay of sentence will be allowed, the court stated, to file an appeal. The appeal will be based on the alleged illegal seizure by the government and introduction into the evidence of private papers belonging to the defendants.

For mitigation was based on the poor physical condition of Forbes and Thompson. After sentence had been passed, their friends in court declared that imprisonment would probably prove fatal to both men.

Gasoline Goes Up Another Cent

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Gasoline continued its sudden upward climb today jumping another cent a gallon.

The jump was general throughout the city, with all companies participating, according to announcement by Henry E. Mills of the Mills Oil Company.

The latest boost brings gasoline to 23 cents a gallon.

This constitutes a jump of six cents in less than three weeks.

The price of gasoline in Kingston today was 22 cents at most garages and oil stations, but dealers were uncertain as to whether an increase of another cent would go in effect before night. They expect it will go to 24 cents before long.

Used Pope's Name In Book Fraud

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Feb. 4.—Arrests were promised by police today in a $500,000 DeLuxe book fraud in which the names of Pope Pius and Cardinal O'Connell were used by a publishing house and stock salesman. Police said thousands were misled including many teachers.

According to police, salesmen represented that the Vatican had purchased the entire editions of the books and that the price of $50 a set would insure a profit to those who purchased stock in the publishing company in addition to buying the books themselves. Cardinal O'Connell's name was freely used, police said.

Those who purchased the books, police said, found them almost worthless. Those who took the purchase money and company stock failed to secure fancy dividends.

Crime Unites Child's Parents

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 4.—Love and tragedy were linked hand in hand today when 7 year old Lisa Thompson's confession that she took the lives of her baby twin sisters by feeding them ground glass in their food two years ago, ended another woman's life by giving her rat poison and recently tried to take the lives of eight other persons by giving them poison, was believed to have caused a reconciliation between her estranged mother and father.

Meanwhile, physicians and doctors are continuing their examination of the girl to determine whether they believe her weird confession or if it is simply a figment of her imagination.

Seek Handkerchief Origin

It is difficult to assign a period and a country of origin to the handkerchief. But it seems to have been known in remote ages, and traces of it are to be found among the Egyptians. On the contrary, strange as it may seem, the Greeks appear not to have used handkerchiefs, says the Detroit News. Passing from the Greeks to the Romans, we find that the latter had something of the kind which they called "sudarium" (sweat). It was of the finest lace and was used chiefly as an ornament and as a fan during the games in the circus.

For many centuries afterward there is no mention of handkerchiefs, and we only find traces of them about 1550 in Italy. For many years the handkerchief was round and oval, and it was not till the time of Louis XVI that it became square.

Watching His Step

A young man of nervous appearance, yet possessing a certain determined air, walked today a very ornate business building, hesitated a moment, and then with the sharp motions of one who is about to take the final leap, entered one of the well appointed offices.

"Is this Mr. Stevens' office?"
"Yes."
"Mr. Gerald K. Stevens?"
"Yes."
"Is he in?"
"Yes; would you like to see him?"
"No; no. Thank you. But could you tell me how long he will be here?"
"Why, he should be here at least three hours. But he can see you perfectly well right now."

"Thank you just the same, but I think I shall call on his daughter,"
—Harper's Magazine.

Didn't See It

Recently I asked a man, who has arrived from Europe on one of the privileged boats that are now used as ferries, whether there were any rough days. "I haven't the slightest idea," he said. "I never saw the sea from foot to port." It appeared that he was on one of the enclosed decks some 30 feet above the water. There is an insulating contrast between the artificiality of the modern floating palace and an element so primitive as the ocean. It is like a dining car passing through infinite miles of sandstorm. —Brooklyn Magazine.

Encores

If this emotional nature lacked warmth, what culturally it possessed was an exquisite refinement, and a commitment of his refinement was an effective sympathy to ideas of discipline, direction, purpose, and material superiority whose cultural grounds were his and whose artistic origin in counterpoint was probably the one great main stream of his life. He was a man of his generation, and was a man of his generation. —W. C. Freeman, in "American Press Review."

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

State Agricultural Society Approves Gasoline Tax

Imposition of a gasoline tax on motor vehicles using the roads of New York state was approved in a resolution adopted at the recent annual meeting of the New York Agricultural society at Albany.

A resolution was also adopted placing the organization on record against the ratification of the child labor amendment. During the debate on this resolution the belief was expressed that the proposed amendment was an attempt to tamper with the solid foundation of the United States constitution and that it would prove to be "just another amendment."

Professor G. F. Warren of the State College of Agriculture in an address to the society members declared that the rapidly increasing problems of marketing, becoming more serious in the United States than in any other country, must be solved by scientific methods just as problems of sciences.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith addressed the society on the tax problems of the state, outlining his program for bond issues as stated in his message to the legislature.

Officers elected were E. R. Eastman, editor of the American Agriculturist, president; Chas. Baldwin, Albany, secretary; Harry B. Winters of Albany, treasurer.

League Farmers Welcome Concentration on Fluid Milk

The concentration on fluid milk sales made possible by the practical elimination of its surplus operations has received the unqualified approval of League farmers, according to officers of the Dairymen's League Co-operative association.

Under the arrangement recently completed with the Borden company the Dairymen's League Co-operative association will discontinue its evaporated milk operations. The League retains the ownership of the Dairyland trademark and the Borden company has a lease by which it agrees to act as distributing agent of the League's Dairyland brand of evaporated milk.

According to President Slocum the acquisition of the additional class 1 milk secured through recent purchases has put the League in an entirely different position in regard to its marketing program. "It will make it possible," says Mr. Slocum, "because of the little surplus which we have now available and which will not be available for two or three months, for the League to obtain possibly 10 per cent more for its members in their January sales and possibly 20 more for their February sales, or in other words, a total of $1,500,000 additional money for League farmers, which nearly offsets the entire cost of acquiring these additional markets." We find ourselves today in the strongest position we have ever been in our history."

Ideal Farm Mortgage Plan Demonstrated at Farmers' Week

The Federal Land bank at Springfield will present a progressive picture of the new farm mortgage plan in contrast to the old type short term farm mortgage in a novel exhibit at Farmers' week. Cornell university, Ithaca, during the week of Feb. 5. The thousand of Farmers' week visitors will be shown by the exhibit the co-operative nature of the Federal Land bank whereby the dividends are paid back to farmer borrowers. These dividends, including the one declared in 1921, totaled to date nearly a quarter million dollars, $247,326.

The exhibit will graphically explain the new plan of farm mortgage whereby the farmer pays a small fixed installment each year to take care of his interest and principal.

Over five thousand loans have been made by the Federal Land bank at Springfield to New York state farmers, the loans totalling some sixteen millions of dollars. The total business of this bank since its organization amounts to over $37,000,000.

Co-Operative Purchasing to Be Feature of Farmers' Week Exhibit

The great co-operative buying business set up and managed by New York state farmers will be presented in an exhibit at Farmers' week at the New York State College of Agriculture. The exhibit, which will be part of a co-operative exhibit, will show the physical holdings of the G. L. F. Exchange and the products supplied through the exchange to farmers.

Under the caption "This is the business that farmers built," all the plants of the Exchange will be shown in large pictures so that the New York farmers who own stock in the organization, but are unable to visit their properties may get a clear idea of the extent of their holdings.

Other co-operative exhibiting will be the Dairymen's League Co-operative association, the Western New York Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association, and the New York State Sherb General's Co-operative association.

Drake's Long Voyage

Mr. Francis Drake's famous voyage around the world was completed in a little less than three years. He left England in September, 1577, and returned to port there in September, 1580, and was welcomed by Queen Elizabeth.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 4.—A falling market for the oil stocks today saw the railroad and equipment stocks ready to take up the forward movement.

The record breaking traffic of the transportation companies for January, the further decline in general and local crude oil production, with higher prices for oil products in the east and the far west, a sharp recovery in the grain markets and, finally, the marking down of call money rates to 3 per cent, made a favorable combination of outside factors as has been since the turn of the year. But the almost continuous advance in oil stocks in the past ten days invited profit taking and called for the natural "corrective" in the price lists of active shares.

While the oil stocks were freely supplied to the market today, there was no heavy selling and nothing more than fractional declines in most of the active stocks. Buying demand was excellent.

The notable gains in January traffic and the certainty of a number of new mergers of railroad lines particularly in the southwest, has attracted a larger following to the railroad shares. Southern Railway was a leader and sold above 88 for the first time on reports that a dividend is to be increased 6 per cent. Missouri Pacific, Missouri-Kansas-Texas and the Washash stocks were also prominent.

The equipment stocks, Baldwin and American Locomotive, received a boost from reports that the Rumanian government had paid interest on the money owed these companies for locomotives purchased some years ago and would eventually liquidate the whole debt of about $4,000,000 including interest. Equipment shares also were favorably affected by the prosperous outlook for the railway companies and their consequent ability to buy engines, cars etc. New York Airbrake and Lima Locomotive enjoyed an active market at higher prices.

Independent steel stocks were strong on announcement that pig iron production had made a notable gain in January. Gulf States Steel rose 2 points to a new high for the year at 94 1/2. Crucible, Bethlehem and Republic sold above one point higher. Motor stocks, shipping shares and some of the sugar stocks continued their forward movement.

Greenpoint at Armory Tonight

Tonight at the local armory court the Kingston team of the Metropolitan League will be given a severe test, when it meets the Greenpoint outfit. The Greenpoint team now in second place in league standing, is out strong for the pennant this half and already has shown its ability over some of the teams.

Kingston, winners of the first half race, is in third place and one of the teams in the circuit most feared. The team taking the court for the Morganweekers will undoubtedly be the same as last week, with M. Husta and Renda in front, Charlie Powers at center and Tom and Carl Husta in the backfield.

The Greenpoint team will use Gary and Norman with Eckert, ready as forwards, Anderson, center and Barlow and Sullivan in the guard positions.

The Kingston-Greenpoint contest recently played at Greenpoint resulted in a win for the Greenpointers. In this game George Arthur was severely injured and Renda was handled rather roughly. If Greenpoint expects to win and play accordingly, a real game should be in order.

ST. MARY'S TO PLAY CLINTON AVENUE SENIORS.

This Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock at Epworth Hall, the Clinton Avenue Seniors will take on the St. Mary's Juniors. Both teams have an enviable record so far this season and a good game is expected. A. A. U. rules will be used throughout the contest by Referee Kelly. This game should prove to be one of the best games played at Epworth Hall this year. A record crowd is expected to witness the contest because it will not only be the many Clinton Avenue fans but also the many followers of the St. Mary's team.

Threw Imaginary Feed to Chickens

Players and coaches used to have a lot of fun with Heinie Berger, a pitcher of more than a dozen years ago, for they found kidding him was the most effective way of getting his goat and stealing a ball game.

One thing they would do when he was pitching for Columbus was to throw imaginary feed to chickens and say, "Come, chick, chick, chick! Come, chick!"

And behind this the players had spun a yarn to the effect that one day at his home Heinie had drawn the assignment to kill a chicken for the family meal. He gave the fowl a sharp kick on the neck with an ax and the beheaded bird slipped out of his hand and jumped and danced under a wood shed. They claimed that Heinie then threw feed under the shed in an effort to entice it out.

College Athletes Given High Rank as Scholars

Varsity athletes rank higher in intellectual capacity than those not participating in collegiate athletic activities, Martin Kemp, professor of physiology at Wesley college, Ohio, declared at the annual meeting of the Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges.

"Football men," he asserted, "are not so good in scholarship as other varsity athletes, but rank better than non-athletes."

Declaring psychology may break into athletics as it has in other fields, Coleman R. Griffith, professor of psychology at the University of Illinois, predicted that "the more mind is made use of in athletic competition the greater will be the skill of our athletes, the finer will be the contest, and the higher will be the ideals of sportsmanship displayed."

Army's 1925 List Calls for Eight Big Contests

Army's football schedule for 1925 shows eight contests have been arranged with one open date, which will be filled later. ## Ordinary Name of Smith Often Means Famous Men

Twenty years ago the annual all-American football team selected by Walter Camp carried the name of Smith, at fullback. He was picked from the University of Pennsylvania, and on the same eleven were Shadrach of Yale, Cooney of Princeton, Hogan of Yale, Eckersall of Chicago, Stevenson of Pennsylvania and Hurley of Harvard. At that time hurdling's death knell was sounded and Hurley, crimson end, was one of the last to be seriously injured under the old style of play. Smith, who is now known as "Andy," coaches the University of California eleven, which has come through five seasons undefeated.

Revive Giant Cincinnati Deal

McGraw After Pitchers and Hendricks Could Use First Basemen—Roush Again Provides Topic for Debate.

(By David J. Walsh.)

New York, Feb. 4.—The choice morsel of backstairs gossip today is that the apparently defunct Cincinnati-New York deal, involving as many as five ball players, is about to be or has been revived. Protracted conferences between John McGraw and Jack Hendricks during the two-day meeting of the National League, brought to a close yesterday, have lent color to the story and at least one practical baseball man has assured the writer that the business is on the fire and coming to a boil with commendable rapidity.

Eddie Roush, perennial candidate for a New York transfer, according to the local viewpoint, is one individual who has provided exercise for idle tongues. Edward, it is whispered, was the subject of our Mr. McGraw's lengthy disquisition. Another report had it that Eppa Rixey and Pete Donohue, pitchers, furnished the topic of conversation.

Hendricks, of course, has a singular interest in the first basemen at the moment, and according to the best advice, discussed learnedly and at some length on the subject of George Kelly, it is not admitted in the local camp that Kelly is on the market but it is significant that rumors were in the air following the last world series that McGraw had soured on the lengthy one for reasons not altogether clear. Just what other players he could afford to offer, in addition to Kelly, no one seemed to fathom.

In fact, the Roush angle would seem to be just a trifle damp, in that Cincinnati would want plenty for the young man and McGraw has none too much to give.

But for either Rixey or Donohue, he could step out with the ingredients of a reasonable trade. Kelly among others, and the tip today was that the deal was progressing on that basis, if any. At least, one other Cincinnati player has been mentioned in connection with the business, but beyond the fact that he is a pitcher of more than ordinary ability, nobody appears to have a true line on his identity.

When the deal was first broached early in the winter, it is understood that the Reds offered Adolfo Luque, the curious Cuban, to the Giants but McGraw spurned him haughtily. Perhaps, however, he would be willing to take Adolfo on as an adjunct to a trade, if such there be.

OLD TRICK WON MATCH FOR "STRANGLER" LEWIS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis brought an old trick into play in his wrestling match with Joe Mondt here last night, and won the third and deciding fall of the greatest match seen here in many a season. Mondt had the Strangler high in the air, and was preparing to dash him heavily to the mat for the decision. Lewis's feet were about even with Mondt's knees and Ed made a heavy kick, knocking one of the knees double and felling Mondt like a shot. As Mondt fell Lewis clutched desperately, got a headlock and laid his opponent prostrate. The fall took 10:15.

The first fall went to Lewis in 47:05 with his favorite hold and Mondt won the second in 37:22 with a figure four or jack knife scissors on the arm.

Seek Opponent for Flowers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 4.—With the announcement that Paul Berlenbach, local knockout king, would not be available for a bout until some time in March, Tex Rickard began looking for another opponent for Tiger Flowers in the Garden late this month.

The promoter admitted that the Flowers-Berlenbach match was off because of the latter's claim that he injured one of his hands in his meeting with Tony Marullo last week.

Terris-Mandell Fight on Friday

Great Interest Shown in Coming Lightweight Bout—Contender Named for Leonard's Vacated Title.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 4.—With the naming of 16 American candidates for Benny Leonard's vacated lightweight title by the state athletic commission, interest today rose to fever heat in the impending fight of Francis between Sid Terris, "the dancin' fool," and Sammy Mandell, the so-called sheik of Rockford.

Terris and Mandell are regarded as the head liners of the list, the pair that ultimately will survive the international tournament and in consequence Madison Square Garden sold to the doors for the bout.

Both have been training at the Garden gymnasium daily, and although Terris has a large local following, Mandell's appearance on the floor has been the signal for wild demonstrations. New York is more steamed up over the meeting than in any lightweight contest since Leonard and Richie Mitchell fought three years ago.

In what betting has been done to date, Terris has been installed a slight favorite but there is quite a bit of "wise money" riding with Mandell. The latter lacks Terris' speed and foot but his just as rapid if not with greater effect. His work in the clinches is also expected to bother Terris from the opening bell.

The 16 lightweights named as contenders by the New York commission were:

Cure for Unrest

By adding about a couple more hours of sleep each night, and about three hours more of work a day, we fancy about 90 per cent of the unrest in this country would be disposed of. —Houston Post Dispatch.
